Computer Classes Offered at Library Free Class for Adults over 50

Beginning this week, Pocatello's Marshall Public Library, 113 South Garfield Avenue, will again offer computer classes for beginners.

This program will be a series of five classes. The first class will focus on initial introduction to the computer, including instruction on how to use a mouse to point and click, and the following classes will increase in difficulty. The second and third classes will familiarize students with Microsoft Word. The fourth class will address using the Internet, and in the fifth and final class, the students will create an email account.

The computer classes are geared toward adults over 50 who have little to no computer experience. Individuals may attend all, one, or any combination of the classes. All classes are free and open to the public, but registration is required.

The first class will be held Wednesday, August 25, 2010 at 9:00 a.m. The same information will be repeated Thursday, August 26 at 7:00 p.m. Space is very limited, so please call John or Amy at 232-1263 extension 21 to register.
