

News Release

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE
January 26, 2012

Contact: Amy Campbell
232-1263 ext. 21
acampbell@marshallpl.org

Cruise the Fossil Freeway at Marshall Public Library Alaskan artist Ray Troll visits to share his travel adventures

Suburban T-rexes, Eocene killer pigs, and bizarre ancient sharks, oh my!

Alaskan artist Ray Troll and paleontologist Dr. Kirk Johnson encountered all of the above and more during their epoch paleo-road trip. From fossilized forests and rock quarries full of hundreds of fossilized bones to the remains of ancient seashores tracked with the footprints of dinosaurs, the trip made evident that fossils are everywhere. It only takes knowing where to look—even cruising along at 65 miles per hour.

Join Troll at Marshall Public Library on January 31, 2012 at 6:00 p.m. as he shares stories and slides of this 5,000-mile journey across the American West. This program is free and open to the public.

####